

HAMPTON, PHOEBUS AND OLD POINT.

READY FOR HAND IN TROUBLE ON JAMES

Oyster Navy Boat Sails from Hampton Tomorrow for Near Riot Scene.

REPLACING OF STAKES MAY CAUSE OUTBREAK

Reports Coming to Captain Lawson Say All is Quiet Along River—Police Force Will Go to Investigate and Swear Out Warrants Against Intruders—Oystermen Determined.

Information received in Hampton yesterday by Capt. William E. Lawson, chief of police of the Virginia oyster navy and inspector for Elizabeth City county, was to the effect that "all was quiet along the James river," and that no further outbreak of the disturbance of Thursday is expected until the big planters again endeavor to replant the oyster stakes. Capt. Lawson said last night that the reassuring information from the scene of trouble between the tongs of Isle of Wight county and the planters was so encouraging that he had delayed the sailing of the oyster police boat up the James until tomorrow morning. The Commodore Maury, the flag ship of the Virginia State Fisheries Commission, steamed into Hampton creek last night and the entire police force of the oyster navy will sail on the Maury tomorrow morning for Rescue to investigate the facts in connection with the pulling up of the private stakes between Day's Point and Mulberry Point.

Ready to Respond. "The fact that all of the private stakes have been taken from the waters," said Capt. Lawson to the Daily Press representative, "is guarantee of no further outbreak among the belligerent planters, as it is likely that the private planters would attempt to re-stake their beds until the oyster navy reaches James river. For this reason I do not expect the Commodore Maury to sail for the river until Monday morning, although should the occasion demand it the Maury is now ready to respond to a call in a moment's notice."

"Another thing is that we do not expect any further trouble, but will leave the situation now to the civil authorities in Isle of Wight county to see that the men who tore up the stakes are properly punished. Under the laws we cannot make an arrest on land, as we are given authority over the waters and therefore our arrests must necessarily be among the boats in the streams over which the fisheries commission has jurisdiction. However, we are going to request the State authorities of Isle of Wight county to assist in bringing the intruders to justice and the fisheries commission will unquestionably swear out the warrants for the arrest of every man, whose name can be secured, that participated in Thursday's trouble. I hardly think that it will be necessary at this time to take but one oyster boat to the Isle of Wight side."

Claims of Oystermen. Oystermen coming to Hampton yesterday were unusually severe in their denunciation of the acts of the State

Fisheries Commission, many of them claiming that the commission has given the private planters much of the best rock in James river. It was also pointed out that although the commission and had five watch houses finished for more than twenty days, that no watchmen have been put in them and that private planters are working the State rocks illegally. It was said that the tongs from all sections of Tidewater are organized to break-up the illegal giving away of the State rocks and that the organization is determined to keep the private stakes off the public rocks. The crowd from Rescue and Jones Creek on Thursday numbered nearly a hundred determined men, who have for years made their livelihood from the waters of James river.

Will Enforce the Law.

McDonald Lee, chairman of the board of fisheries, is now at Healthsville and he yesterday wired Capt. Lawson to keep him fully informed of the conditions along the James. Mr. Lee intimates in his telegram that the commission is going to enforce the law at all hazards and that the men engaged in the trouble on Thursday will have to be prosecuted. It is said among the tongs that never before in their history has there been so much general dissatisfaction over the action of the board of fisheries as in the case of the planters along James river, where the board once before had to take back public rock granted by them to Capt. Bonneville. After the Bonneville decision the tongs had expected the commission would take back all the rocks upon which the planters have been granted licenses to oyster.

SOCIAL-PERSONAL

Miss Sadie Miller and Mr. Archie Mellen, who have been visiting Mrs. Dorsey, in East Hampton, will return to their homes in Washington tomorrow evening.

Mr. Arthur Lordley, of Camden, N. J., is expected here today to join Mrs. Lordley, who is visiting Mrs. J. W. Ketter, in Victoria avenue.

Oscar E. Wood, who underwent an operation in the Dixie hospital, was able to leave the institution yesterday and go to his home in Elm avenue.

Miss Isabelle M. Schofield left last week for a two months' visit among relatives in the North.

Mrs. Woodson N. Tignor and Mrs. Benjamin S. Tignor will leave this week for a visit in the mountains of Virginia.

Miss Leonard Tignor is visiting relatives in Grafton, Va.

Rev. and Mrs. George W. Wray will leave tomorrow evening to spend a month in New York city and other points in the North.

May Lose His Eye.

Henry Hartman, who had his eye injured a few days ago while shooting at a rat in the Johnson Pharmacy, was taken to the Elizabeth Boston hospital yesterday to undergo an operation. It is believed now that the eye will have to be removed as the young man is suffering considerably from the injury. Hartman shot a rat in a barrel of bottles and a portion of flying glass struck him in the right eye.

HIS HORSE IS STOLEN

Thieves Enter Barn of Capt. John C. Robinson.

PECULIAR WHISTLE HEARD

No Attention is Paid to Noise, But When the Stable is Visited at Usual Hour, the Valuable Steed is Missing—Reports to Police.

A valuable brown mare, about eight years old, was stolen from the stables of Capt. John C. Robinson, on the Boulevard, between Hampton and Newport News, sometime during Friday night. The animal, which Capt. Robinson valued at $150, was placed in its stall Friday night, and when the stable man went to the barn yesterday morning he found that the horse was missing. The horse had been tied to the stall with a halter, but the thief or thieves, had relieved the rope from around the equine's neck and had stolen the halter also.

Capt. Robinson was at first inclined to think that probably the horse had broken out of the stable, but a short investigation around the premises lead him to change his opinion and is certain that the horse was stolen. Friday night about 11:30 o'clock Mrs. Robinson heard someone whistle in a mysterious way, but at that time Capt. Robinson gave the incident little thought. He expressed the opinion yesterday that probably two men were guilty of the larceny of his horse and that the unusual whistle was evidently a sign given by the thief in watching the man in the stable to proceed with his stolen horse.

Capt. Robinson notified the police authorities of Hampton and Newport News and a general alarm was also sent to the counties and towns surrounding the peninsula.

It will be recalled that several months back a thief stole a valuable horse from the Dilworth's dairy in Newport News and that the animal was recovered several weeks later in or near Richmond.

NOT THE RACER, BUT SCHOONER COLUMBIA

Hall's Marine Railway Secures Contract for $5,000 Repair Job from New York Man.

The old schooner yacht Columbia, which was at one time a racer, but is now the private yacht of a New York man, is on the ways at Hall's marine railway to undergo extensive repairs. By some unaccountable route yesterday the report got out that the Columbia was the yacht which twice defeated the English yacht Shamrock in the international cup race. This, however, is not the case as the schooner Columbia now here never participated in an international cup race with Lipton's English yacht in American waters. The racing Columbia that won from the Shamrock was just 50 feet long, while the schooner Columbia here is 114 feet in length.

The schooner Columbia is owned by Capt. Tucker, a well known New York yacht man, and was brought to Hampton for repairs by Captain Ackley, who as stated in The Daily Press a few days ago, went to New York to bring the vessel back. Mr. W. P. Hall, the manager of the marine railway here, visited New York a few weeks ago, when he secured the contract for repairing the schooner. It is said that the local firm will secure $5,000 for doing the repairs.

The schooner Columbia is an ocean going yacht, and has participated in across ocean races.

Back from New York.

Messrs. J. S. Wyatt, Jr., J. Monroe Harris and Hugo Nosenbacker, who have been on a visit of ten days in New York city, returned home yesterday morning.

Refrigerators are Germ Breeders. REFRIGERATORS are one of the most fertile places for germ breeding in the household. Even a slight carelessness often makes typhoid possible. Sanitation is entirely against connecting refrigerator waste pipes directly with the drain, as is commonly done in the city. This does away with carrying a waste pan to the sink every few hours, but on the other hand, it is quite unhealthful, bad gases being allowed to enter the refrigerator at all times.

Charcoal or a lump of dry lime should always be kept in the food box. Either of these absorbs impurities and acts as a disinfectant. A refrigerator should be emptied at least once a week, all the shelves being taken out, and every inch of the inside washed with strong ammonia water. This work can be done quickly in order that the box will not lose all its coolness. As soon as this is finished it is closed while the shelves are being washed. It is not necessary that the water should be hot, as this will again raise the temperature of the box.

If enough ammonia is used the purpose of cleanliness is accomplished. Every morning the food that has been left in from the day before should be thoroughly examined. If it bears the slightest taint it should be thrown away. It is quite necessary to store milk and butter in glass, stone or crockery vessels, and they must be covered.

AT AMERICAN THEATER.

Rose Royal and Her Posing Horse the Attraction.

Miss Rose Royal and her "posing statue horse" Chesterfield will be the special attraction at the American theater this week.

Miss Royal and Chesterfield made a little hit at the Newport News Academy of Music several weeks ago. The act is an unusual one, and is especially appealing to the ladies and children.

Chesterfield will be shown at every performance this week and, as usual, there will be a new moving picture program every night.
